ENGLE'S ANGLE:
“Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous”

by Kevin S. Engle

Remember that TV show?
If it were still on today, I have no doubt they'd feature my wife and me in an episode.
Not to brag, but we do live an extravagant life.
Here's just a glimpse of what it's like to be us.
Just the other day I got a royalty check in the mail for my book.
To be precise, it's not a check, and it doesn't come in the mail.
It's an automatic deposit into our bank account.
I decided we should celebrate.
And celebrate we did.
I went to the grocery store and bought a dozen eggs.

Technically, it was only enough to cover about six eggs, but I'll take it.
We then used those six eggs and made my favorite French toast recipe.
Mmm, mmm.
That might've been the best French toast I've ever had.
When you've had a taste of the good life, or the French toast, like we have, it's hard to imagine living any other way.
I know I shouldn't assume anything, but we've already talked about what we'll do when that next royalty check comes around.
We like to travel and that little windfall is going to help.
To paraphrase Dr. Suess, oh the

WARM UP WITH IRISH STEW
THIS ST. PATRICK’S DAY

- 4 stalks of celery, washed, trimmed and chopped
2 large yellow onions, peeled and chopped
3 cloves of garlic, minced
3 large carrots, peeled and roughly chopped
12 fluid ounces Guinness stout
1 bunch fresh parsley
1 bunch fresh thyme
1 bunch fresh rosemary
3 large potatoes, peeled and cubed
2 teaspoons cornstarch
4 teaspoons water

1. In a medium saucepan set over medium heat, bring 3 cups of stock to a boil; add barley. Reduce heat to low and gently simmer for 20 minutes. Set aside.
2. Meanwhile, pat the meat dry with paper towels. Season the meat with salt and pepper. Heat the oil in a 6-quart Dutch oven. Brown the meat on all sides over medium-high heat. Using a slotted spoon, remove the meat from the pot. Sprinkle flour over the meat, shaking off any excess; set aside.
3. Add the celery, onions, garlic and carrots to the pot and saute until onions are soft and translucent. Add Guinness and deglaze the pot, scraping up all the caramelized bits on the bottom and sides of the pan.
4. Chop the leaves of the parsley, reserving the stems. Tie the parsley stems and several sprigs of thyme and rosemary into a bundle; drop the bundle into the pot. Chop the remaining thyme and rosemary; set chopped herbs aside.
5. Return the meat to the pot. Add the potatoes, barley and enough stock to cover the meat and vegetables. Bring to a boil over medium heat. Reduce heat to very low and simmer for 2 to 3 hours, or until meat is fork tender. Stir occasionally, adding remaining stock as necessary.
6. Check seasoning; adjust to taste. Stir in chopped parsley, thyme and rosemary. Mix cornstarch in water and stir. Add to stew, stirring to incorporate. Cook over low heat for 5 to 10 minutes or until stew thickens. Ladle into bowls. Serve with crusty bread and of course more Guinness if desired.

St. Patrick's Day is known for revelry. A festive atmosphere prevails each March 17, and people from all walks of life and genealogical backgrounds take part in festivities that have become celebrations of Irish culture.
Cuisine is a big part of Irish culture, even if it's not the first thing people think of when pondering the Emerald Isle. This St. Patrick's Day, celebrants can bring a touch of Irish cuisine to their celebrations by preparing the following recipe for “Irish Guinness Stew with Lamb” courtesy of Lines+Angles.

Brownie is a 10 year old mellow hound looking for his furever family! He is extremely sweet and docile. He is good with other dogs and kids. He is neutered, up to date on vaccinations and microchipped.

Ally's a collie mix around 8 yrs old. She is super sweet, laid back and just wants to be with her people. She has lived with dogs but no cats for her please. Low energy and a calm dog would work best. We require a dog test to see if everyone gets along ok. She's a known escape artist so don't leave her alone outside. She loves kids and will do GREAT as a family dog with kiddos of all ages. She's housebroken, loves car rides and baths!! She's spayed, chipped and UTD on vaccines.

Hamrick's Sudoku!

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle! (Answer in back.)

the return of the Shenandoah River Adventure Race and Shenandoah River Aquablaze, set to take place this September. These events are expected to draw participants from across the region for a weekend of thrilling competition and outdoor excitement.

The Shenandoah River Adventure Race, scheduled for Sept. 6, offers 12-hour and 6-hour options, which include kayaking, mountain biking and trail running sections. Participants can compete solo or as a team of two, three or four.

Then, on Sept. 7, the park will host the Shenandoah River Aquablaze. Aquablazing is when Appalachian Trail thru-hikers kayak or canoe a portion of the trail. Now, explorers have the chance to experience an Aquablaze along the Shenandoah River with a backdrop of Skyline Drive.

The Shenandoah River Aquablaze has 1/2 marathon and full marathon course options with kayaking and trail running. Participants can compete solo or as a team of two.

"We're excited to welcome back these competitions to Shenandoah River State Park," said Park Manager Dustin Haymaker. "These races provide a unique opportunity for participants to immerse themselves in the park's stunning natural beauty while embracing the thrill of outdoor adventure and personal challenge."

The Shenandoah River Adventure Race and Shenandoah River Aquablaze are organized by Rev3Endurance and part of the Virginia State Parks Adventure Series, presented by Dominion Energy. To learn more,

Shenandoah National Park plans prescribed burns

LURAY, VA – Fire managers at Shenandoah National Park plan to burn approximately 40 acres of Big Meadows and approximately 20 acres in the park's headquarters between March 11 and April 30, 2025, weather permitting. A notice will be posted on the park's website and social media platforms when dates for each prescribed burn are finalized. Fire managers anticipate one day of operations to complete the Big Meadows project and multiple days to complete the headquarters project.

A portion of Big Meadows (mile 51 on Skyline Drive), the open area across from Byrd Visitor Center, is burned each year for the purpose of maintaining the open vista and reducing the potential for wildfire by preventing encroachment from small trees and shrubs and reducing grass and shrub cover.

Areas of the park's headquarters in Luray, Va, are treated each year to reduce the buildup of dead and down woody fuels that contribute to wildfire spread.

Prescribed burns are ignited by fire managers under a pre-determined set of conditions, including temperature, relative humidity, wind speed, wind direction, fuel moisture and resource availability. Prescribed burns will be conducted as interagency projects, with local support, under the guidance and direction of trained and experienced National Park Service personnel.

Smoke from the burn may be visible in and around the Big Meadows and headquarters areas. Visitors driving in areas of smoke should take additional care by slowing down and ensuring their headlights are on. All park facilities will remain open during the prescribed burn.

Access to Big Meadows will be restricted during the burn. Access to headquarters will be limited to employees and business operations during the burn.

Shenandoah River State Park to host Bluebell Festival

Bentonville, Va. – The highly anticipated Bluebell Festival will return to Raymond R. "Andy" Guest, Jr. Shenandoah River State Park on April 5 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. This special event welcomes spring with a stunning display of Virginia bluebells carpeting the park's scenic trails along the Shenandoah River.

Visitors can enjoy guided nature walks, ranger-led educational programs and a variety of family-friendly activities that highlight the park's rich biodiversity. The festival will also feature live music, local artisan vendors and food trucks.

"Shenandoah River State Park is renowned for its breathtaking landscapes and diverse wildlife," said Park Manager Dustin Haymaker. "The Bluebell Festival is an excellent opportunity for visitors to experience the park at one of the most picturesque

NEWS, from 13

Week to emphasize the importance of flood preparedness and mitigation in the commonwealth ahead of spring downpours and Atlantic hurricane season.

Flooding is Virginia's most common and costly natural disaster, impacting thousands of residents and businesses each year.

Virginia Flood Awareness Week serves as a reminder that flooding does not solely affect the coast. The impacts of both Hurricane Helene on Southwest Virginia last year and heavy rains last month resulted in widespread and significant destruction, displacing families and damaging critical infrastructure, reminding us of the ongoing threat posed by flooding throughout the state.

"Flooding can happen anywhere, whether you live along the coast, near a river, or even in cities after a heavy rainfall, and at any time, as evidenced by widespread flooding in Southwest Virginia this February," said DCR Director Matthew Wells. "Understanding your flood risk and taking action – including securing flood insurance and taking steps to protect your home – can make a difference when it comes to protecting lives and property."

DCR's Floodplain Management Division leads the commonwealth's efforts to reduce flood risk through planning, technical assistance and public outreach and serves as the statewide coordinator of the National Flood Insurance Program. DCR's Flood Awareness website offers fact-sheets and a risk assessment tool designed to help Virginians determine their flood risk and assist with flood preparedness.

Virginians can learn about a property's flood risk by entering an address into the Virginia Flood Risk Information System (VFRIS). VFRIS has been updated with a newer, user-friendly interface that allows for easier navigation of the site. VFRIS now has an option where you can choose between a default view that displays your flood risk and an expert view that aggregates additional flooding information for specialized viewers.

Despite the risks, only 3% of Virginians carry flood insurance, according to the National Flood Insurance Program.

"Many Virginians don't realize that standard homeowners' and renters' insurance policies don't cover flooding," said Angela Davis, DCR Division Director of Floodplain Management. "Flood Awareness Week is an excellent opportunity for residents to learn about the importance of flood insurance and other mitigation strategies that can help prevent future disasters."

There are additional ways renters, homeowners and business owners can reduce potential flood damage to some, but not all, of their property. These include:

Storing important documents in waterproof containers, on an upper floor

Caulking windows, doors and gaps where pipes and wires enter a building

Labeling propane tanks with the owner's name and address

Choosing tile or other waterproof flooring over carpeting on lower floors

Virginia DMV Warns Customers of Toll Charge Text Scam

Don't Support, Just Report
RICHMOND – Did you get a text about an overdue toll charge? It's likely a scam. The Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles is alerting customers about a new text scam where fraudsters pose as toll agencies and falsely claim you owe money for unpaid tolls. In the text message, the scammers urgently tell you to pay a toll to avoid late fees and include a link in the message. Clicking that link could result in your personal information being stolen, making you a victim of this scam. "The DMV will never send you text messages about toll bills," said DMV Commissioner Gerald Lackey. "We urge our customers to be vigilant and avoid sending your personal information via text." Here are some tips from the Federal Trade Commission on how to avoid falling for a text scam like this:
- Don't click on any links in, or respond to, unexpected texts. Scammers want you to react quickly, but it's best to stop and check it out.
- Check to see if the text is legit. Reach out to the state's tolling agency using a phone number or website you know is real — not the info from the text.

- Report and delete unwanted text messages. Use your phone's "report junk" option to report unwanted texts to your messaging app or forward them to 7726 (SPAM). Once you've checked it out and reported it, delete the text.

Attorney General Miyares Announces Top 10 Consumer Complaints

AG Miyares Highlights his Office's Consumer Protection Resources as Part of National Consumer Protection Week
As part of National Consumer Protection Week, Attorney General Jason Miyares today announced the top 10 consumer complaints received by his Office. By highlighting these complaints, the Attorney General hopes Virginians will be wary of any suspicious offers and actively report any consumer concern.

- During 2024, the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Section received and processed 6,836 consumer complaints. The top 10 complaint subjects were:
1. Automotive Sales
 2. Internet Sales & Service
 3. Credit, Loans & Debt Collection
 4. Warranties & Rebates
 5. Home Improvement, Service & Repair
 6. Timeshares & Recreational Property
 7. Automotive Service & Repair
 8. Medical/Health Professions
 9. Towing
 10. Landlord/Tenant

The Attorney General's Office serves as the central clearinghouse in Virginia for the receipt, evaluation, and referral of consumer complaints. It also operates a Consumer Protection Hotline.

Last year, the Office handled 19,658 calls from consumers needing assistance.

"My office's Consumer Protection Section ensures that Virginia consumers are protected from bad actors who undermine the economy and exploit fellow Virginians," said Attorney General Miyares. "Victims of scams or other fraudulent activity should feel confident knowing they can lean on us as a resource to see how we can help."

In addition to serving as Virginia's clearinghouse for consumer complaints, the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Section also offers dispute resolution services to individual consumers and businesses to assist them in resolving consumer complaints. The Dispute Resolution Unit can serve as a neutral facilitator and point of contact between consumers and businesses as they voluntarily work toward a mutually agreeable outcome.

Last year, the Dispute Resolution Unit and the Section's investigators resolved or closed 3,754 consumer complaints with consumers recovering $134,385.

To learn more about consumer complaints in Virginia, Attorney General Miyares encourages consumers to check out our Consumer Complaint Database.

Individuals can find the number of complaints filed against a specific business, whether the complaints are open or closed, a description of the complaint topic, the outcome of individual complaints, and other information. The database can be searched by company name, industry, or complaint topic among other categories. Searches also can be limited to geographic areas.

Virginians who have a question, concern, or complaint about a consumer matter should contact Attorney General Miyares' Consumer Protection Section:

Public invited to comment on draft wild turkey management plan

The Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources (DWR) is seeking public review of the draft 2025-2034 Virginia Wild Turkey Management Plan through April 4, 2025. This is the second revision of the Wild Turkey Management Plan, with the first being completed in 2014. The revised plan was completed through the involvement of public stakeholders and managers of turkeys in Virginia. Because DWR's mission includes managing "wildlife populations and habitat for the benefit of present and future generations," it is important that the process used to develop and revise the plan incorporates both public values (e.g., sociological, cultural) and biological considerations.

The revised plan will guide turkey management across the Commonwealth through 2034. It describes the history of wild turkey management, current status, and the future of turkey management in Virginia. It also provides a framework of what needs to be done and how it should be done.

Guided by the DWR mission, the Wild Turkey Management Plan includes a mission statement and four goals that address the areas of populations, habitat, recreation, and conflicts. Specific objectives help guide the attainment of each goal. Potential strategies then clarify how each objective could be achieved, but without delving into the operational details. This plan will provide clarity and direction on the goals of turkey management in Virginia for the next decade to the DWR Board of Directors, DWR administrators and staff, agency partners, and the public.
